Accidents can happen anywhere. However, traveling anywhere outside the United States, even traveling with Imprint Tours can involve risks and hazards that are greater than usual. Although Imprint Tours can use its experience and knowledge to help make your vacation fun and safe, things can go wrong. By signing this document, you agree to assume the risks of traveling abroad, however great or slight they may be. Because of where and how you will travel, and the fact you sometimes will travel by bus on fast highways, busy, narrow or contested streets, and because of the forces of nature, you understand that accidents, illness or other unforeseen mishaps can occur. You understand that sometimes accidents or illness or inconveniences can occur in remote places where there is no ready assistance or medical care. You also understand and agree that although Imprint Tours and all of its employees, agents, officers, and representatives (hereafter referred to as "us" and "we") carry general liability insurance, you are not insured under our insurance if someone has a claim against you; nor do we carry liability insurance that pertains to accidents, injuries or events caused by other people. You also understand that we do not provide any medical, health or related services on our tours, so you agree to make sure your own health needs, and the needs of your spouse and family, are taken care of by yourselves.

In return for the consideration of participating in a tour with Imprint Tours and in consideration of the money you have paid, and our agreements with you, you also agree to waive and release any claim you, your family members or spouse could assert against us. We will do our best to make your travel safe, pleasurable and fun. Nevertheless, you agree that if something goes wrong, or if you have any disputes with us, currently or in the future, you have waived any claims you could have brought against us. As you know, part of the fun, and part of the risk, of traveling in foreign countries is that food and water and lodging and local customs can be very different from that which you are used to. Thus, your waiver of claims includes any disputes you may have about tour accommodation, food service or quality, transportation, sightseeing, or your itinerary.

You also agree that among the events we want to avoid, but that you could encounter, are strikes, theft, political instability, poor roads or public services or transportation, actions by police, customs, or local law officials, inclement weather, civil unrest, global pandemics, regional epidemics and diseases, animal aggression . . . even incidents of war, sabotage or terrorism; and you also specifically agree that you have waived, and cannot ever bring claims against us for anything or any kind of property or personal damages or injuries or even death based on or arising out of those events or situations. Because it is impossible to foresee everything that can possibly go wrong, even that which is currently unknowable, unanticipated or unforeseeable, we ask, and you agree that, as to us, you have released and waived even claims based on or arising out of that which is unknown, unanticipated or unforeseeable.

You also understand and agree that if someone should assert a claim or demand or cause of action against you for something that arises out of or relates to this Tour, you have agreed that you cannot, in turn, seek any contribution or indemnity or defense from us.

Although we want everyone to have a good time, it sometimes happens that someone participating in a tour can misbehave or do things that are incompatible with the safety, comfort or convenience of other members of the tour. You agree that in those circumstances we have the exclusive right and discretion, to expel someone, or even you, from a tour at any time without any claims or complaints by you against us.

I have read and understand this Release and Waiver Agreement. I know that this document is intended to have a binding legal effect on me, my spouse and my family. I further understand that altering this document in any way will render it invalid. I have also read the Terms and Conditions Agreement. I understand that by signing this Release and Waiver Agreement I am bound by all the Terms and Conditions related to this tour. I certify that I am over the age of eighteen (18), and if not, my parent or legal guardian has also signed this document authorizing me to participate in this tour.
